

Employee Town Hall Calls to be Held Every Other Week

FSIS is committed to ongoing communication with you to relay valuable information. The employee town halls that have taken place over the past few months have proven to be an invaluable communication tool. While we are continuing to monitor how COVID-19 impacts FSIS, the situation has evolved and we have been able to streamline our COVID-19 related announcements and procedures, resulting in information changing less rapidly. However, we still find significant value in the employee town halls and will be holding them every other week to ensure that you have the latest information on a variety of topics. The next set of employee town hall calls will take place on July 15.

It is important that supervisors communicate to employees without access to computers or e-devices the availability of the town hall calls and provide them with current call-in information. All employees need to be informed of the most up-to-date information. Employee access to the information discussed in the town hall calls is essential to the Agency's success.

Supervisors should also ensure that all employees are aware that they may submit questions to FSISfeedback@usda.gov. Employees will receive responses to their questions and many of the common questions are also answered during the town hall calls.

The call-in information for the July 15 town halls will be provided at a later date. Thank you for providing safe food to families worldwide.
